What to be mindful of while hiking

- *Be mindful of the area around the crater.
- *Be aware of the location of the crater and wind direction.
- *Pay attention to information coming in on your mobile phone and portable radio while hiking.
- *Do not get close to fumaroles or depressions or valleys where volcanic gases can easily accumulate.
- *If you discover any abnormal phenomena (such as fumes, odors, fissures, earthquakes, etc.), hiking down to a safe elevation and alert the local municipalities, police and meteorological observatory.

If there is an eruption while hiking

- *Confirm where the eruption has occurred and immediately evacuate in a direction away from the crater.
- *Use your backpack and helmet to protect yourself from volcanic projectiles and ash and take temporary shelter in a mountain hub or behind rocks.
- *Cover your mouth and nose with a mask or wet towel to prevent inhaling volcanic ash or gas.
